Your Idea. Your Fundraising Program.

Create an initiative around what you care about

Anyone can explore, organize, and lead a fundraising idea. Start with something you know or enjoy, and consider which nonprofit could benefit.

Keep ownership and credit

The creator keeps ownership of the idea and receives 100% of the credit. Ai & WE can help shape a plan, prepare questions, or identify potential collaborators. The creator decides which help to use.

Everyone can contribute

People can offer time, skills, introductions, ideas, or encouragement. A small project with a willing nonprofit can be a practical beginning.

Free Collaboration and Direct Giving

Work with an independent nonprofit

Each nonprofit chooses whether to participate and approves how its name and activities are represented. Discuss the plan, responsibilities, and permissions before any public announcement.

Contributions go directly to the nonprofit

Ai & WE charges no administrative fees or commissions for its collaboration and does not collect or handle charitable donations. People who choose to give do so directly to the participating nonprofit.

The creator leads

The creator organizes the initiative with the nonprofit’s agreement. Ai & WE helps people plan and collaborate. Participation is always a choice.

From an Idea to a Practical Plan

Begin with an ACTUAL conversation

Describe the difference you want to make. Explore who might benefit, what you can contribute, and who might choose to help.

Plan with your nonprofit partner

Agree on the purpose, schedule, roles, accessibility, permissions, costs, and how donations will reach the nonprofit. Be clear about what is confirmed when speaking with the public.

Learn from the experience

Ask what helped, what was unclear, and what you could improve. You can adapt the plan, invite new ideas, or decide to stop.

A Better World, One Initiative at a Time

Start with one possibility

A neighborhood event, a creative project, or a story about a nonprofit’s work can give people a way to help. The examples that follow show several possible starting points.

Give in the way that fits

People may volunteer, connect others, create materials, share an idea, or donate directly to a nonprofit. Everyone decides how to take part.
